

The CIM Foundation

In 2014, the Canadian Mining and Metallurgical Foundation (CMMF) became the CIM Foundation (CIMF). The name change was made for the sake of clarity, enabling the Foundation to better align itself with CIM, its parent organization, whose members created the Foundation in 1972. CIMF remains a legally separate entity and distinct from CIM but continues to be assisted by the Institute and funded by its members.

CIMF continues to support both the CIM Distinguished Lecturer's series and the M4S Educational Fair. The Foundation's signature mineral cards project grew in 2014 with the support of new corporate sponsors. CIMF continued to develop educational projects to help showcase the mineral cards including: a mineral bingo game as well as board games that asked students to match minerals to mine sites. Two additional boards are being created to highlight the minerals used in cell phones as well as the minerals needed by the human body.

The card collection has more than 400 mineral cards in both official languages (English and French). The Foundation is also developing cards in seven other languages, including three aboriginal languages (Inuktitut, Innu and Naskapi) and four international languages (Chinese, South American Spanish, Arabic and German).

CIMF participated in the following events: Franco-Mine (Toronto), M4S (Kuujuaq), CIM Conference (Vancouver), CIM MEMO (Sept-Îles), Earth Day (Montreal), Québec mines pour tous! (Quebec City), Aboriginal Day (Montreal).

In 2014 CIMF:

- Distributed 5,500 decks of cards to students and the general public.
- Distributed over 20,000 mineral cards to students and the general public at events.
- Distributed 1,200 mineral posters to teachers for classroom use.
- Provided select aboriginal students with access to information about minerals (cards) in their own languages.
- Provided over 6,200 students with information about minerals and their importance in our day to day life during M4S events.
- Scotch tastings were offered to 170 CIM Conference delegates with Scotch Tastings held in Sept-Îles and Quebec City.
- Provided 450 CIM Conference delegates with items from CIM Foundation auctions, in Vancouver, Sept-Îles and Quebec City.
- Provided over 10,000 CIM members with the CIM Foundation newsletter (fall) and annual report (spring) included in their copies of CIM Magazine.

The Foundation is also forging closer relationships with CIM branches and societies by providing them with scholarship information and educational material, including regionally appropriate mineral cards. The CIMF manager visited CIM's Sudbury, North Bay, Quebec and Sept-Îles branches, and collaborated with the Canadian Mineral Processors Society, developing closer working relationships with these CIM communities.

Scholarships

Last year, over $75,000 in scholarships was awarded to 27 deserving students in more than 13 universities, colleges and CEGEPs, across Canada.

- Caterpillar and its Canadian Dealers Scholarship ($2,000 x 1)
- Scotiabank Scholarship ($2,000 x 1)
- McIntosh Scholarships in Mining Engineering:
 - Technical Scholarships – first installment ($2,000 x 4)
 - Technical Scholarship – second installment ($3,000 x 1)
 - Degree Scholarship – second installment ($4,000 x 1)
 - Degree Scholarships, 2nd year entry – first installment ($3,000 x 5)
 - Degree Scholarship, 3rd year entry – first installment ($4,000 x 1)
 - Degree Scholarships – third and last installment ($5,000 x 5)
- Taking Flight Scholarships ($1,000 x 6)
- Arthur and Irène Foley Scholarships ($3,000 x 2)

In addition, the CIM Foundation administers funds for branches and societies which, in turn, provide their own scholarships, bursaries and awards to their constituents.
